

Wild Country

tent range 1999

find yourself

miles

away...

WILD

COUNTRY
TENTS

Imagine a place,

miles from anywhere,

a place where the pressures of the real world fade away.

Spending time exactly as you please,

hiking across rolling hills, cycling through stone-walled lanes or maybe high on a mountain ridge.

With a Wild Country tent
you'll

Wild Country tents are made for people like you, people who live their dreams in the freedom of the outdoors.

Our tents have been designed by people who live for the wild country and are made by the world's best tentmakers, so you know you're in good hands. Designed and built to the highest standards,

Wild Country make tents that you can rely on.

So next time you find yourself

miles away,

make sure

it's with Wild Country.

WILD

COUNTRY

TENTS

make an investment in your leisure time

When you buy a Wild Country tent, the comprehensive lifetime guarantee gives you complete peace of mind. From our manufacturing base in Derbyshire we provide an extensive repair and replacement parts service, and because our customer service department is staffed by outdoor enthusiasts just like you, we believe we offer the best after-sales care available.

For assistance please call our advice line

01773 830100

the Wild Country lifetime guarantee

All Wild Country tents are guaranteed against defects in materials and workmanship. We will either repair such defects free of charge or replace the product at our discretion. This guarantee does not affect your local statutory rights. Damage that occurs due to accident, improper use or wear and tear, including degradation by ultra violet light, can be repaired or replaced at a reasonable cost.

take care of your tent

We offer a comprehensive and reasonably priced repair service and will endeavour to complete any work within 15 working days of your go-ahead (we will not commence any work without your approval). This means your tent is back with you when you need it. Please make sure that all products are clean and dry before sending them to us. If you require any replacement parts including pole sections and pegs, please contact your retailer or alternatively contact our Customer Services Department.

Zephyr

weight 2.4kg
sleeps 1+

full specification
on page 8

Mistral

weight 3.2kg
sleeps 2

full specification
on page 9

Sirocco

weight 3.7kg
sleeps 2+

full specification
on page 12

Monsoon

weight 5kg
sleeps 3-4

full specification
on page 13

key

Indicates comparative pack sizes of Wild Country tents

Indicates the stability rating given to Wild Country tents

Indicates weight of each Wild Country tent

Indicates storage space available
within the Wild Country tent

find yourself

miles

Feel the rush of adrenaline pumping around your body,
as you push yourself and the bike to the limit.

Legs screaming

away ...

as you climb the final few metres to the summit,
a moment to check the view and then fear banished as you hurtle

There's a great atmosphere as you pitch the tents and relax
a feeling of total exhaustion but also exhilaration for

Features to consider when
choosing your Wild Country
tent:

Small pack size for ease of carrying

Added stability year-round use in sheltered conditions

Low weight is essential

Minimum storage space as you'll be
travelling light

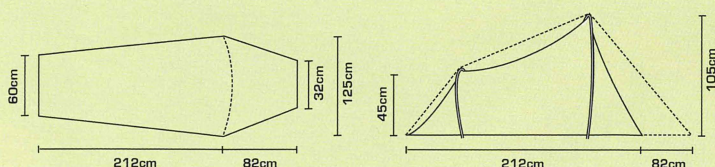

down the descent.

for the first time that day,
what you've achieved.

mountain biking

Zephyr

A spacious single person tunnel tent that can accommodate two (if you don't mind getting cosy). The steep side walls and tall front hoop allow plenty of headroom, while the flysheet porch hood gives you extra protection from rain, even with the door open. The Zephyr's aerodynamic shape and multiple guypoints give it excellent stability in strong winds and it's low weight and small pack size makes it ideal for backpacking and cycle-touring.

Features

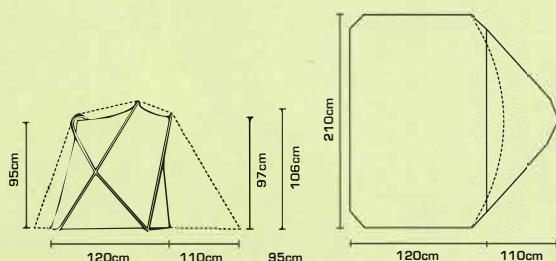

- Twin hoop design for low weight and easy pitching.
- Elliptically shaped outer door zips to allow easy access.
- Fully seam-sealed flysheet and groundsheet mean total protection from the elements.
- No-see-um mesh door and ventilation panel on inner for better airflow.
- Flysheet porch hood for extra weather protection.

weight 2.4kg
sleeps 1+

Mistral

Accommodating two people with ease, the Mistral has plenty of space due to its steep side walls and vertical inner door. The large porch makes an excellent storage area, while the deep storm hood aids ventilation and prevents water dripping into the inner. The Mistral's low weight and small pack size make it a favourite with backpackers and cycle tourists.

Features

- Semi-geodesic design to maximise internal space and increase stability.
- Elliptically shaped outer doors to allow easy access.
- Fully seam-sealed flysheet and groundsheet mean total protection from the elements.
- No-see-um mesh door and ventilation panel on inner for better airflow.
- Deep porch hood for extra weather protection.
- Front pole anchor strap for extra stability.

weight 3.2kg
sleeps 2

away ...

miles

find yourself

I b tent abo

I seized the o
of a quick hike to

just as the sun casts Retracing my footsteps,

darkening shades of the f

Home sweet home.

I set off walking in the mist,

walking

and climbed steadily along the rock-strewn path until roke through into late afternoon sunshine. Pitching the ve the tarn, now glistening in the low angled light,

ppportunity

the summit, I reach the top

its final rosy fingers across the fell.

I caught sight of the tent sitting against the ell-side.

Features to consider when
choosing your Wild-Country
tent.

Small pack size that's easy to carry

Good stability for year-round use in
sheltered conditions

Low weight is an essential feature

Minimum storage space as you'll be
travelling light

away ... miles
loads of room for a party when the weather is perfect
two entrances and strong enough to hold up the tent
(the last thing I want to be worried about is whether the tent will be there when I get back) important as we normally arrive on a site late on In fact, I can't think of anything else after windsurfing

Features to consider when choosing your Wild Country tent:

Not important unless being carried

Good stability for use in sheltered conditions

Not important unless being carried

Maximum storage space for wet gear

find yourself

the tent away at weekends when we're windsurfing, perfect:

weather's poor,
ough to survive a real 'westerly'
ried about when I'm out on the waves, ck). Easy to pitch too, which is on Friday evening.

of a better place to sleep
a 'hard day's work'.

Khamsin

As the largest tent in the Wild Country range, the Khamsin can accommodate up to six people. Its semi-geodesic design offers excellent performance and is surprisingly easy to pitch.

The Khamsin has the same features as the other models in our range and an additional vent at the rear keeps condensation to a minimum. Ideal for family outings and group use, the Khamsin will pack down easily and still leave plenty of room in the boot of your car.

Features

- An additional porch pole provides a sheltered storage area large enough for bikes and with enough headroom for sitting in deckchairs in poor weather.
- Semi-geodesic design to maximise internal space and increase stability.
- Elliptically shaped outer doors to allow easy access.
- Fully seam-sealed flysheet and groundsheet mean total protection from the elements.
- No-see-um mesh door and ventilation panel on inner for better airflow.
- Deep porch hood for extra weather protection.

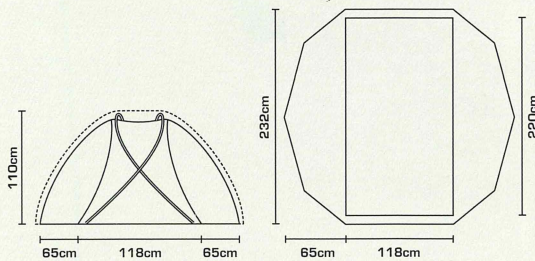

weight 7.6kg
sleeps 5-6

new Storm Range

Tornado

As the most compact of the innovative new 'Storm Range', the Tornado offers excellent stability, a spacious interior and great versatility. Twin porches, ample headroom and genuine four-season performance, make this the clear choice for year-round backpacking. Used with all three poles in place, the Tornado offers dependable shelter in poor conditions, while in summer you can leave the third pole at home to save weight.

Features

- Semi-geodesic design for strength and to maximise internal space.
- Innovative '2+1' pole system for versatility. Use all three poles for performance in poor conditions, or leave the third pole at home when weight saving is a priority.
- Two porches give extra storage space and easy access.
- Double mesh doors and flysheet porch hoods allow excellent ventilation, even in bad weather.
- Fully seam-sealed flysheet and groundsheet mean total protection from the elements.

weight 3.7kg
sleeps 2

find yourself

We had driven down to the south of France for a week's R'n R on the sunny limestone cliffs of Provence.

The tent was pitched on the little campsite at St Remy,
miles

looking out over the village to the spine of the Alpilles beyond.

away ...

We brought one of the tents from the new storm range to test, which proved an ideal choice.

climbing

There was enough room for the three of us to sleep in comfort and plenty of storage space under the porch for all our gear.

Features to consider when choosing your Wild Country tent:

Small pack size for easy carrying

High stability for year-round use in poor conditions

Low weight is an essential feature

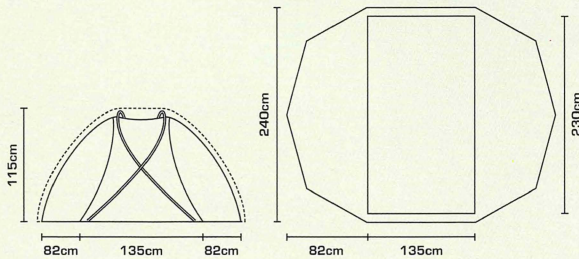

Good storage space for gear

new Storm Range

Tempest

The big brother of the Tornado, offering more space for two people or a lightweight backpacking tent for three. Perfect for year-round camping, the Tempest has the same innovative mix of features as its sibling, while its extra room will be popular with expeditions and those seeking a little more comfort. Features the new '2+1' pole system for all season performance.

Features

- Semi-geodesic design for strength and to maximise internal space.
- Innovative '2+1' pole system for versatility. Use all three poles for performance in poor conditions, or leave the third pole at home when weight saving is your priority.
- Two porches give extra storage space and easy access.
- Double mesh doors and flysheet porch hoods allow excellent ventilation, even in bad weather.
- Fully seam-sealed flysheet and groundsheet mean total protection from the elements.

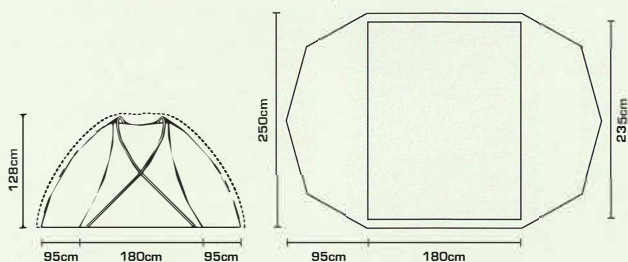

weight 4.2kg
sleeps 2+

new Storm Range

Typhoon

If you're looking for a tent with loads of headroom and plenty of storage space, the Typhoon is the perfect choice. Comfortably sleeping three adults, it has two big porches for storage and twin-doors for easier access. It can be split three ways for backpacking and its revolutionary '2+1' pole system makes it the ideal choice whatever the weather.

Features

- Semi-geodesic design for strength and to maximise internal space.
- Innovative '2+1' pole system for versatility. Use all three poles for performance in poor conditions, or leave the third pole at home when weight saving is your priority.
- Two porches give extra storage space and easy access.
- Double mesh doors and flysheet porch hoods allow excellent ventilation, even in bad weather.
- Fully seam-sealed flysheet and groundsheet mean total protection from the elements.

weight 4.9kg
sleeps 3

find yourself mi cano

The plan was for a lazy weekend
pitching camp on the shore towards dusk,

a total break from the frenzy of the working week.

Of course we should have expected

but when it began sudd

Wild Country tent pitched so quickly.

Within minutes we were sitting cosily inside the tent,

with the stove purring away and enough room to stretch out and relax.

Features to consider when
choosing your Wild Country
tent:

Small pack size for ease of stowing

Good stability for year-round use in
sheltered conditions

Lightweight for easy portage

Minimum storage space as you'll be
travelling light

les

away ...

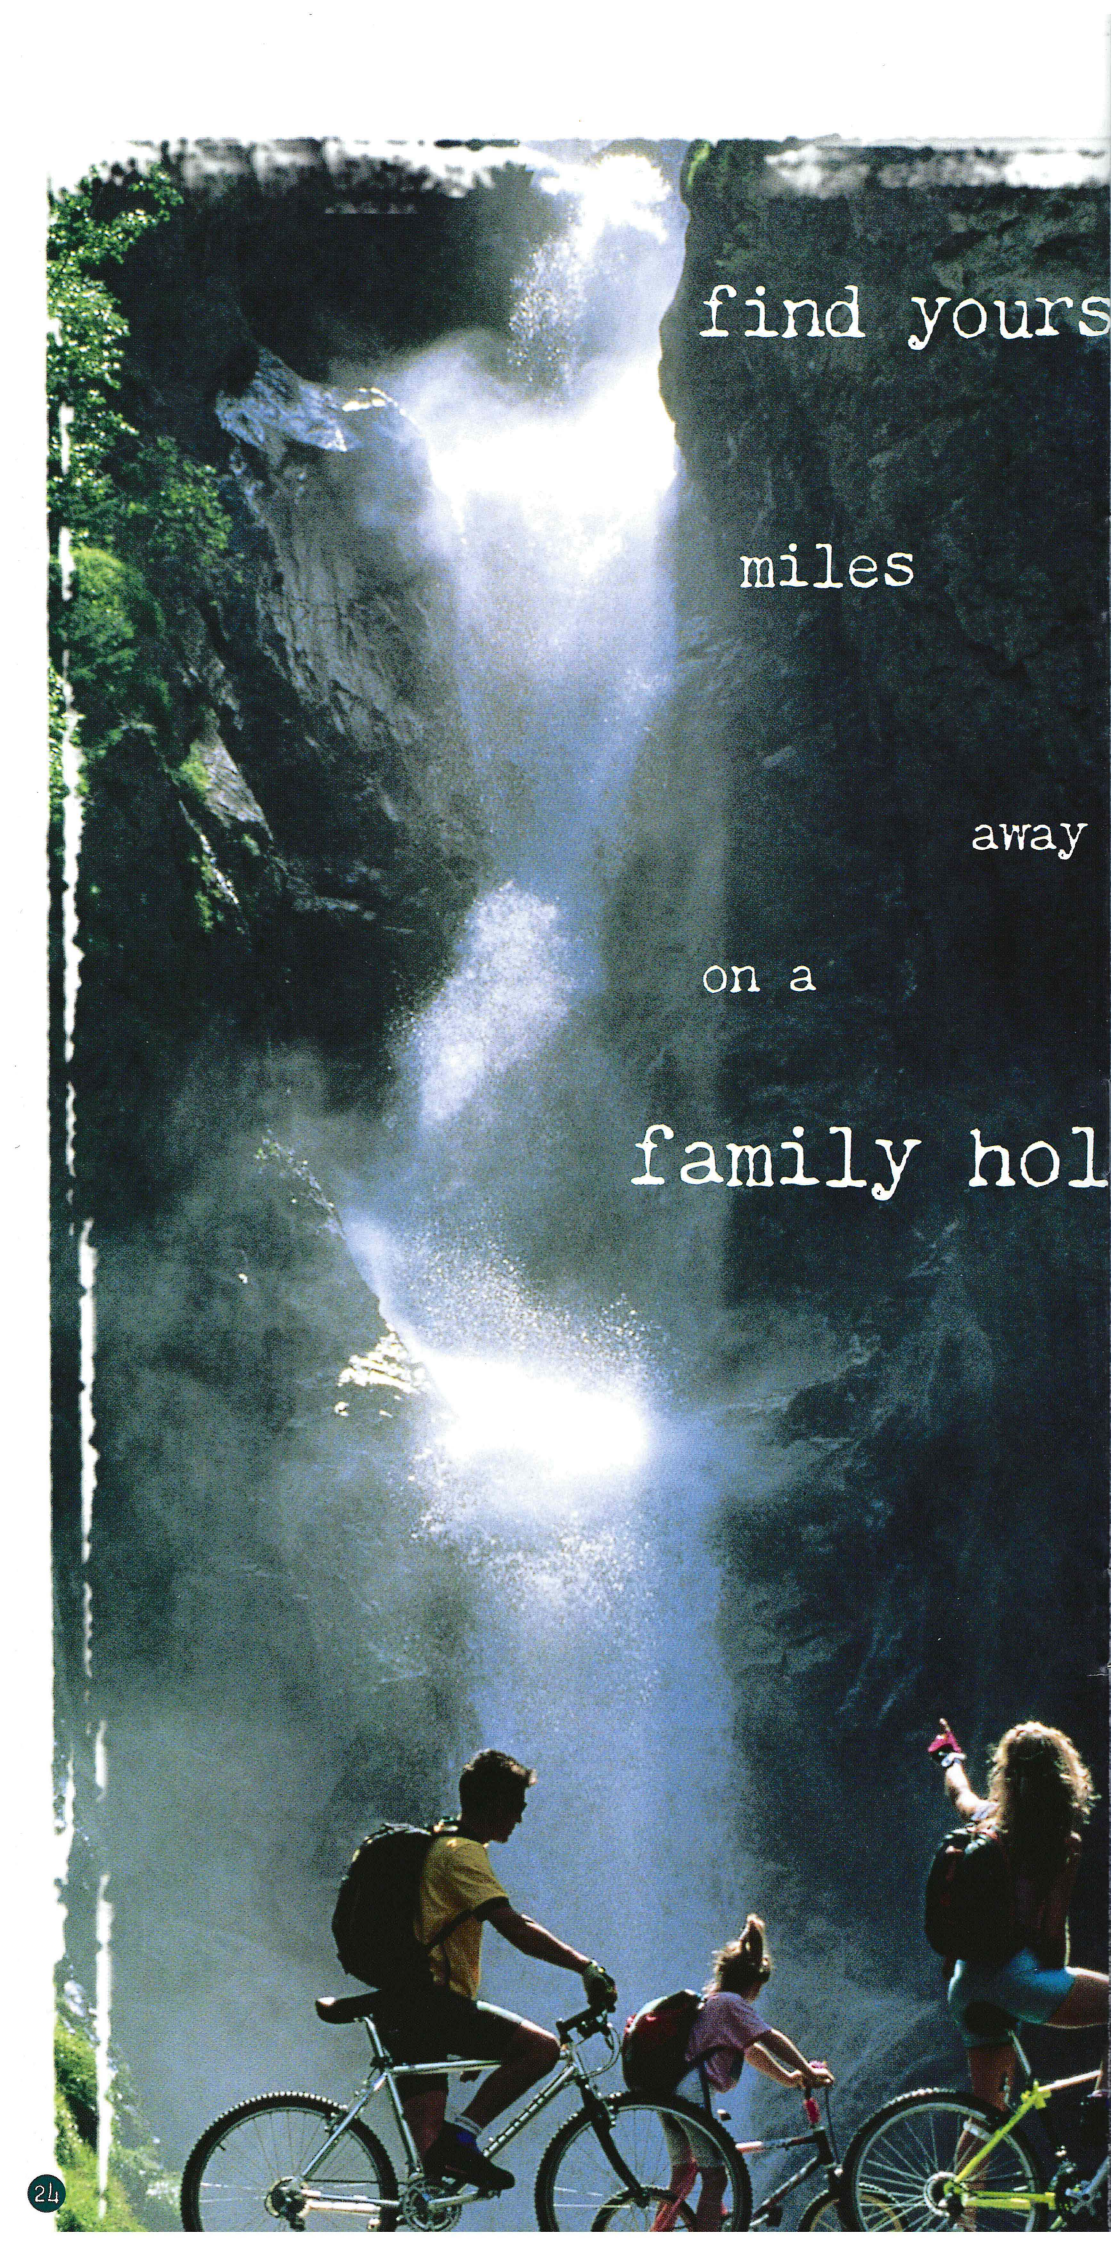

e touring

's paddle down river,

ed rain,

only we were glad our

A full-page photograph of a family of three on bicycles. In the foreground, a man in a yellow shirt and a woman in a blue top are riding towards a massive waterfall. A child is riding between them. The waterfall is a wide, powerful cascade of water falling over a dark, rocky cliff. Sunlight filters through the mist and spray of the waterfall, creating a bright, ethereal glow. The background is a dense forest of green trees.

find yours

miles

away

on a family hol

elf

It's difficult trying to get

time away with the family these days,

so when the opportunity arises, we try to do something really special.

...

Pitching the tent in the middle of no-where,

we're soon lost

in the quiet calm of our surroundings.

iday

A chance to reflect on the value of time spent together, in a place made for relaxing.

Features to consider when
choosing your Wild Country
tent:

Not important unless being carried

Enough stability to withstand moderate winds

Not important unless being carried

Maximum storage space

Khamsin

weight 7.6kg
sleeps 5-6

full specification
on page 16

new Storm Range

Tornado

weight 3.7kg
sleeps 2

full specification
on page 17

Tempest

weight 4.2kg
sleeps 2+

full specification
on page 20

Typhoon

weight 4.9kg
sleeps 3

full specification
on page 21

colours

teal green

chilli red

WILD

COUNTRY

TENTS

designed to perform

The experience we have gained from many years of manufacturing the world's finest mountain tents puts us in the best position to choose the ideal materials for your Wild Country tent.

Proofed ripstop nylon provides a lightweight, breathable and shower resistant inner-tent.

A fully seam-sealed, waterproof flysheet for complete protection from the elements

Seam-sealed bathtub groundsheet to give total confidence in wet conditions

T6 7001 alloy poles for strength and low weight.

Light and strong Duralium pegs to ensure a perfect pitch every time

features and benefits of Wild Country tents

All Wild Country tents are extremely stable and easy to pitch. In addition all our tents have a range of special features unique to Wild Country, which make life a lot more comfortable.

Near vertical inner doors and longitudinal pole configuration for greater inner space.

Steep side-walls to maximise headroom.

Extra large porches to give plenty of storage space.

Elliptically shaped porch zips for easy access and a variety of door positions.

Flysheet porch hoods which overhang the front of your inner-tent, preventing water dripping into the inner and improving ventilation.

take the world by storm

Brand new for 1999 are 'Tornado', 'Tempest' and 'Typhoon', which form the new 'Storm Range' from Wild Country.

Designed to give true four-season performance in tents that are light enough for backpacking, they feature several innovative ideas unique to Wild Country:

'2+1' pole system for versatility. Use all three poles for maximum performance in poor conditions or leave the third pole at home when weight saving is the priority.

Twin porches for increased storage space and easier access.

Radius-cut porch hoods to give excellent ventilation and added protection from the elements.

Add these to the features found on the rest of the Wild Country range and you'll see why we think the Storm Range is a step forward in tent technology.

Where to find Wild Country

You can find our products at most specialist outdoor shops across the country.

To complement your tent, we have a wide range of accessories including groundsheet protectors, tent lofts, zip lube, tent cleaner and an emergency repair kit.

For further information please contact our Customer Service Department

01773 830100

Wild Country
retailer

Terra Nova Equipment Limited
Ecclesbourne Park
Alfreton
Derbyshire DE55 4RF
England

Tel: +44 (0)1773 833300
Fax: +44 (0)1773 831088
E.mail: tents@terra-nova.co.uk
Web: <http://www.terra-nova.co.uk>

In the interests of continuing design development we reserve the right to change the specifications quoted in this catalogue.

Colours are as accurate as the printing process will allow.